On completion of the Across Cultures EAL Framework course, you will be allocated a unique number visible on your certificate, which certifies you to train others in your school/s. This status is issued on the condition that the trainer is a non-commercial provider of the Across Cultures training and does not use the course as a profitable business opportunity. Additionally, the resources provided may only be used as resources for the school/s specified above.

The trainer will inform Across Cultures Ltd if they change workplace and decide to use the resources to train others in the new school. Under no circumstances will they use the resources to train more than one school or any school/s other than the one/s in which they are registered to train (please list those schools)

If you wish to run a course in its entirety following your attendance on this, we charge £50 per person for the handbooks and the certificates. However, you don't need to deliver the entire course. It may just be useful for general knowledge and selecting useful parts.
